

Using System Declaration

The name space declaration, using system, indicates that you are using the system namespace.

A namespace is used to organize your code and is collection of classes, interface, structs , enums and delegates

Main method is the entry point into your application